Effective the day following final enactment and applies to businesses entering a business subsidy agreement for a job opportunity building zone after that date.

EXPLANATION OF THE BILL

Current Law: Under provisions enacted in 2003, qualified businesses that operate in a job opportunity building zone, individuals who invest in a qualified business, and property located in a zone qualify for exemptions from the sales and use tax, income taxes, property tax, and also a jobs credit. A qualified business means a person carrying on a trade or business at a place of business located within a job opportunity building zone. The law specifies that the property tax exemption applies to commercial, industrial, and utility property.

Proposed Law: The proposal creates an exception to the definition of a qualified business in a job opportunity building zone. A business is not a qualified business if, at its location or locations in the zone, it is primarily engaged in making retail sales to purchasers who are physically present at the business's zone location.

REVENUE ANALYSIS DETAIL

- Because there was no restriction on the type of business that would qualify, the estimates for the 2003 law change (revenue analysis for H.F. 3, 1st Engrossment, March 17, 2003) assumed that a portion of the projected costs for Job Opportunity Building Zones would be attributable to retail businesses. The estimates for this proposal are based on the same information.
