2023 Schedule M1MTC Instructions

If you did not pay Minnesota alternative minimum tax in prior years, you are not eligible for this credit.

Should I file Schedule M1MTC?

If you paid Minnesota alternative minimum tax (AMT) in prior years, but are not required to pay it in 2023, you may qualify for a nonrefundable credit for 2023 or later years by completing Schedule M1MTC, Alternative Minimum Tax Credit. File this schedule with your 2023 Form M1.

You may be eligible for this credit if either of these apply:

- Line 27 is more than line 28 on your 2022 Schedule M1MT, Alternative Minimum Tax, and the liability is at least partly due to timing items
- You have an amount on line 29 of your 2022 Schedule M1MTC

If you paid AMT in one or more years from 1989 through 2022, but did not complete a Schedule M1MTC, complete this schedule to determine any carryover. You must file this form to track the carryover amount.

Timing and Exclusion Items

The Minnesota AMT is attributable to two types of adjustments and preferences: timing items and exclusion items.

Generally, timing items do not cause a permanent difference in taxable income over time. The minimum tax credit is only generated by the AMT attributable to timing adjustments and preferences. Examples of timing items include accelerated depreciation, intangible drilling costs preferences, and the exercise of incentive stock options.

Exclusion items do cause a permanent difference in taxable income. The minimum tax credit is not generated by the AMT attributable to exclusion items. Examples of exclusion items include personal exemptions, gambling losses, home mortgage interest, or taxes.

Line Instructions

Part 1 determines the minimum tax credit generated by Minnesota AMT paid for 2022. Part 2 calculates how much, if any, of that credit you can use in 2023. Part 3 determines any minimum tax credit, if any, you can carry forward.

You will not be able to complete Parts 2 and 3 until you determine your 2023 tax liability. Complete 2023 Schedule M1MT before completing this schedule.
